ALLIES GETTING WORSE OFF

Humanity Demands That Efforts Be Made to Stop Conflict-Sure Suggestions Would Be Welcomed.

Washington. - Speaker Champ Clark, in patriotic outburst, urges Wilson to make some effort President to stop the conflict in Europe. He mays in part:

Once more the German chancellos indicates that Germany is willing to negotiate as to peace, stating plainly that Germany will do so, not from fear, but from an earnest and humane desire to prevent further effusion of blood.

"On the other hand, Premier Asquith insists there will be no peace until the allies are victorious-which finally they may or may not be.

Allies Scouted Idea.

"It will be remembered that something like a year ago Germany was ready to consider peace on the basis of 'the maps.'

"The spokesman for the allies said that that proposition was preposterous-that it gave the central powers a vast advantage.

The allies are in worse condition now, or will be in a few days, when the central powers completely overrun Rumania, to settle by 'the maps' than they were when the tentative proposition was first made by the German chancellor a year ago.

"At present, no doubt, the portions of Europe which the central powers now hold of other nations' lands are more valuable than the kaiser's colonial possessions now held by the British.

"Of course, all humane persons everywhere are exceedingly desirous of seeing the stupendous war

Wishes Wilson Would Act.

"Whether President Wilson has any idea of tendering his kind offices to the warring nations, I have not sufficient information to form a be-Hef, but such tender on his part would compel the attention of the civilized world.

Should his tender be declined, it would do no harm. Should he succeed, his rinown would be everlasting and he would be acclaimed the master peacemaker in the entire history of the human race."

Publicity to Mark Every Effort of State Officials to Overcome Natucal Bent of Being Behind-Purchase a Prison Farm.

Jefferson City. At a conference of the newly elected state officials and members of the legislature at the Planters' Hotel to consider the penitentiary problem, Governor-elect Frederick D. Gardner made public for the first time the deficit in state revenues, amounting to $2,074,804.35; outlined a plan for raising several millions of dollars annually to pay off the deficit and meet the growing requirements of the state; suggested the creation of a board of management for all the state penal and engaged in the battle to save the institutions and purchase of a 3,000acre farm, to be worked by first ofnouced. The German-Bulgarian army fenders, and which would provide

In his address to the conference taken prisoners and booty, including Gardner said that the question of raising more revenue was one of the great problems that had to be met and solved. In addition of the $2,-074,804 in approved and unpaid bills, which the state is now behind, he said it was estimated that there would be additional bills of $250,000 been sent back from Athens to by Jan. 1, making a total deficit of $2,324,804.35. There is 100,000 on hand in the general revenue fund, he said, and it was estimated that $600,000 would be collected by Jan. 1.

"The receipts from all sources to date have been $5,084,972.61, and with the $600,000 to be taken in by Jan. 1, the total will be increased to $5. 684,972, of which $2,945,000 has been or will be expended upon the educational institutions of the state, and the public schools, leaving only about $2,500,000 for all other state activities. Now that is the financial exhibit of the state.

"I am glad to make it public. While I am governor the people of the state are going to be taken into my confidence and given full information about their affairs."
